

B. Program Policies and Interpretations

1. Eligible/Non-Eligible Projects

Section 2 of the Family and Community Support Services Regulation (Alberta Regulation 218/94) provides direction for program funding. It states that:

In providing for the establishment, administration and operation of a program, a municipality must do all of the following:

- (2) promote public participation in planning, delivery and the governing the program and services provided under the program;
- (3) promote and facilitate the involvement of volunteers;
- (4) promote efficient and effective use of resources;
- (5) promote and facilitate co-operation and co-ordination with allied service agencies operating within the municipality.

Section 2.1(1) states that:

- (b) do one or more of the following:

 - (ii) help people to develop an awareness of social needs;
 - (iii) help people to develop interpersonal and group skills which enhance constructive relationships among people;
 - (iv) help people and communities to assume responsibility for decisions and actions which affect them;
 - (v) provide supports that help sustain people as active participants in the community.

Section 2.1(2) states that:

- Activities
- Services provided under a program must not
- (a) provide primarily for the recreation needs or leisure time pursuits of individuals,
 - (b) offer direct assistance, including money, food, clothing or shelter, to sustain an individual or family,

 - (d) duplicate services that are ordinarily provided by a government or government agency.

Section 4 of the Family and Community Support Services Regulation states that:

 - (e) municipal property taxes and levies, or
 - (f) any payments to a member of a board or committee referred to in Section 3(b) or (j), other than reimbursement for expenses referred to in Section 3(l).

2. FCSS Program Advice Inventory Listing

The FCSS Program Advice Inventory Listing, developed by Alberta Children's Services (ACS) and the Family and Community Support Services Association of Alberta (FCSSAA), is intended to assist local FCSS Programs clarify the eligibility of projects, services and expenditures. The Listing is another "for FCSS by FCSS" resource designed to support resource allocation decision-making and program delivery in the community. The information is a collection of responses from ACS and the FCSSAA to questions from FCSS program directors and board members regarding funding eligibility. Many of the items included in the Listing were reviewed by the FCSS Program Advisory Team, a joint management partnership between ACS and the FCSSAA.

The Listing is updated from time to time by ACS, as eligibility questions from FCSS programs address items not previously included. Please note that the Program Advice Inventory Listing is not an exhaustive list and interpretations provided are subject to change.

What is FCSS?

FCSS is a unique 80/20 funding partnership between the province, and municipalities or Métis settlements. Provincially, the FCSS Program receives its mandate from the Family and Community Support Services Act and the Family and Community Support Services Regulation. The Regulation sets out the service requirements, or broad parameters, that a municipality or settlement must meet to be eligible for funding. At the local level, a municipality or Métis settlement Council chooses whether to establish a Program, and enters into an agreement with the province to jointly fund FCSS activities. Under FCSS, communities design and deliver social programs that are preventive in nature to promote and enhance well-being among individuals, families, and communities. The programs depend on community resources, often involving volunteers in management and delivery.

The FCSS philosophy is based on a belief that self-help contributes to a sense of integrity, self-worth and independence. The programs developed are intended to help individuals within their communities to adopt healthy lifestyles, thereby improving the quality of life and building the capacity to prevent and/or deal with crisis situations should they arise.

One of the key principles of the FCSS Program is local responsibility in priority-setting and resource allocation. FCSS emphasizes local decision-making for programming, based on the belief that communities have the desire, energy and resources to build community capacity. Each municipality or Métis settlement therefore determines how the dollars they receive should be allocated to best meet local needs.

Eligible projects, services and expenditures must adhere to legislated requirements and it is recommended that the Family and Community Support Services Act and the Family and Community Support Services Regulation be reviewed and referenced regularly. The Regulation states "preventive social services" means "enhancing the social well-being of individuals and families through promotion or intervention strategies provided at the earliest opportunity," and shows that enhancing social well-being can only be achieved within a context of community cooperation. By collaborating and partnering, local FCSS Programs assist with such program goals as helping communities "assume responsibility for decisions and actions which affect them;" and helping to "sustain people as active participants in the community." Promoting local partnerships and cooperation is therefore legally necessary and essential to achieve objectives, as well as being philosophically sound.

Community Development

According to the FCSS Regulation, participating municipalities and Métis settlements are obligated by legislation to "promote, encourage and facilitate the development of stronger communities." FCSS, by its legislated nature, is necessarily involved in community development. Communities can be strengthened in at least two ways:

1. By supporting individuals - Communities are groups of people. In providing services for individuals and families to improve their well-being and build their capacity to prevent and/or deal with crisis situations, communities as a whole are indirectly strengthened. FCSS supports individuals and families by offering programs (direct service delivery), or by funding community agencies to provide the services (external granting).
2. By serving the whole community - Communities are directly strengthened through community-wide initiatives that intentionally involve citizen participation and provide the opportunity for community members to assume responsibility for decisions and actions which affect them. FCSS serves the whole community by initiating and/or supporting community needs assessments, community planning processes, and developing and implementing projects to address community-wide needs. The provision of community-wide services such as community directories, information and referral services, and volunteer centres are other examples of FCSS involvement in community development.

Working with Child and Family Services Authorities

ACS offers a range of services and programs for children and families through ten Child and Family Services Authorities (CFSAs) serving all regions of the province. Local FCSS Programs and CFSAs work together to build strong, effective partnerships at the community level and collaborate on funding initiatives that meet the FCSS criteria.

Determining Eligibility

A key consideration when determining the eligibility of a project or service is to identify its intent or purpose. For example, Boys and Girls Clubs include recreational components; however, the intent of the Clubs' programming is not recreation; rather, the purpose is to encourage and empower children and youth to develop healthy lifestyles, leadership, life skills and a sense of social responsibility. These are "social programs that are preventive in nature" with positive social outcomes provided through various activities. Therefore, FCSS may provide funding to Boys and Girls Clubs for programs and services that meet this intention and purpose.

Identifying the type of "prevention" activity also helps to determine its fit for funding. Crime prevention and safety or injury prevention programs (first aid courses, child car seat awareness, bicycle safety, swim programs, etc.) provide valuable services to community residents; however, they do not meet FCSS criteria in that they are not "social programs that are preventive in nature."

When deciding whether to fund particular projects or services, local municipal or Metis settlement Councils, or FCSS Boards, are tasked with prioritizing the level of community need the project or service will address in relation to other needs in the area, and the degree to which it is determined the project or service will meet those needs (thereby providing a basis of prevention of future needs in the community), as well as the availability of other potential funding sources.

Section 2.1(2) and Section 4 of the Family and Community Support Services Regulation identify ineligible services and prohibited costs.

Crisis intervention and rehabilitation services are not eligible to receive funding.

Section (2)(d) of the FCSS Regulation states that "Services provided under a program must not duplicate services that are ordinarily provided by a government or government agency." This does not mean that local FCSS Programs cannot jointly fund initiatives with government, providing FCSS Regulation criteria are met. The intent is to ensure local FCSS Programs do not start-up projects or services that are already mandated under other government jurisdictions.

Visit the Government of Alberta website at www.gov.ab.ca to learn more about the mandates of various provincial ministries and to identify where potential grants may be available (click on "Government-at-a-Glance" and go to the appropriate Ministry website link). Many government departments/agencies find it necessary to reduce or eliminate funding of programs or services within their jurisdictions. FCSS funding should not be used to enhance or restore these services.

The "Directory of Granting Foundations and Corporations" provides information about numerous funding sources and is available by contacting the FCSSAA Resource Bank at fcssaa@telus.net or (780) 415-4791.

Funding applications to a local FCSS Program from community organizations may include both eligible and non-eligible components. Components of the service that emphasize prevention or skill building may be funded by FCSS, with another funding partner covering the components related to the non-eligible costs such as rent, salaries, travel, telephone, utilities, etc.

Additionally, if a core service is determined to be ineligible for FCSS funding (e.g. food bank, thrift shop, nutrition program, literacy program, special transportation services, etc.) funding may be provided to assist with community development activities such as public education/awareness and volunteer training/development for the service.

Eligibility Assessment Tool

The following four-stage test will assist local FCSS Programs in determining if a project or funding request fits the FCSS eligibility criteria:

1. Is the project or service preventive? Does it enhance the social well-being of families and individuals? Does it have preventive social outcomes?
(The answer should be "yes.")

2. Does the project or service:
 - help people develop independence, strengthen coping skills?
 - help people develop an awareness of social needs?
 - help people to develop interpersonal and group skills?
 - help people and communities to assume responsibility OR
 - provide supports that help sustain people as active members of the community?
 (The answer should be "yes" to at least one of these questions.)

3. Do the services:
 - provide primarily recreational or leisure activities?
 - offer direct assistance, including money, food, clothing or shelter, to sustain an individual or family?
 - provide primarily rehabilitation?
 - duplicate services?
 (The answer should be "no" to all of these questions.)

4. Do the proposed expenditures of the project comply with Sections 3 and 4 of the Family and Community Support Services Regulation?
(The answer should be "yes.")

Program Advice Inventory Listing

The Program Advice Inventory Listing follows the principles and guidelines of the Family and Community Support Services Act and Regulation and is intended to assist local FCSS Programs determine the eligibility of specific projects, services or expenditures. Final funding decisions remain the responsibility of each participating municipality or Métis settlement.

An index of project, service or expenditures is provided at the back of the Listing.
